Dear campus director,

There are only 24 hours in the day. In those short hours, you need to run a ministry, a family and a life. We can agree that IndyCC is an excellent way to challenge students in their faiths and get them to step outside their campus comfort zone. But you don't have the time or resources to promote it. That's where we come in. We want to make promoting IndyCC as simple as possible.

In this packet, you will find:

- Promotional pamphlets
- Three theme-related videos
- One video describing IndyCC
- Sample support letter for students
- Sample letters to the student newspaper
- Letter to invite other campus ministries
- Letter to parents explaining the conference

Please use these resources as you see fit. Feel free to modify them for your campus. Try to promote the Web site, www.indycc.org, as the one-stop shop for student information. Please let us know what additional resources would help promote this conference better. We appreciate your feedback.
